Please include a daytime phone number. The editors reserve the right to edit all columns.
- Deadlines: The Greeley Tribune welcomes submissions, including photographs, to all departments. The deadline for submissions is noon, three days before publication.
- Photos: Photos are encouraged with Guest Columns. Color and black-and-white photographs are accepted. Photographs should be submitted in either a .jpg or .tif format of at least 100K in size. For example, a color photo 2 x 4 inches at 200 dpi saved at medium quality.

Newspapers and Magazines: National

Bloomberg

Address: 731 Lexington Avenue, New York City, NY

Phone: (212) 617-3773

- Bloomberg View invites fresh and timely op-ed submissions on all newsworthy subjects. The ideal length is 800 to 1,000 words. Please send your submission by e-mail to: oped@bloomberg.net.
- Paste your submission into the body of the e-mail, rather than send it as an attachment. We ask that all submissions be exclusive. The editors will read your submission and let you know within two days if it is being considered for publication. If you do not receive word in that time, please feel free to submit your article elsewhere. While all submissions are read, we regret that the volume of what we receive prevents us from responding to everyone who is kind enough to write.

New York Times

Address: 620 Eighth Avenue New York, NY 10018

Website: www.nytimes.com

Editor: Joe Nocera

The New York Times accepts opinion articles on any topic, for the Op-Ed page (Monday through Saturday), the Sunday Review, our Opinionator and other online series, and the International New York Times (which is edited out of Paris, London and Hong Kong).

Articles typically run from 400 to 1,200 words, but submissions of any length will be considered. All submissions must be original, and exclusive to The Times. We will not consider articles that have already been published, in any form, in print or online. Submissions may be sent in any of these ways:

- By e-mail to: opinion@nytimes.com
- By fax to: +1(212) 556-4100
- Or by mail to: The Op-Ed Page, 620 Eighth Avenue, New York, NY 10018

The New Yorker

Address: 1 World Trade Center, New York, NY 10007

Website: www.thenewyorker.com

Editor: David Remnick

- Letters to the editor: Please send letters to: themail@newyorker.com. Include your postal address and daytime phone number. Letters may be edited for length and clarity, and may be published in any medium. All letters become the property of The New Yorker.
- To anonymously send a secure and private message or tip to members of The New Yorker's editorial staff, please use Strongbox: <https://projects.newyorker.com/strongbox/>

Wall Street Journal

Website: wsj.ltrs@wsj.com

Send letters to the editor by snail mail or email to:

- Editorial Features Editor, Mark Laswell
The Wall Street Journal
1211 Avenue of the Americas
New York, NY 10036
- edit.features@wsj.com

If you would like to submit an article for consideration, it must be exclusive to the Journal. Your article should be a strong argument about an issue in the news. And it should not be a response to a Journal article; that is a letter to the editor. We prefer that the submission be between 600 to 1,200 jargon-free words, submitted as the body of an email rather than an attachment. A cover note giving a brief summary of your article should be included along with you name, city, state, and day and evening phone numbers.

What are the guidelines for op-ed submissions?

Submissions must be limited to 800 words. We consider only completed articles and cannot commit to, or provide guidance on, article proposals. Op-eds may not have been submitted to, posted to or published by any other media. They must include the writer's full name -- anonymous op-eds or op-eds written under pseudonyms will not be considered. They also must include the writer's home address, e-mail address and telephone numbers. Additionally, we ask that writers disclose any personal or financial interest in the subject at hand.

How are op-ed contributions selected?

The Post receives upwards of 100 unsolicited submissions a day and on most days can accommodate only one outside contribution on the op-ed page and sometimes an additional op-ed online.

- Submissions are read by editorial page editor Fred Hiatt, deputy editorial page editor Jackson Diehl, assistant editorial page editor Autumn Brewington and opinions editor for digital Marisa Katz. Among the things we look for are timeliness (is it pegged to something in the news?), resonance (is it something that will interest Post readers?) and freshness of perspective (is it an argument we haven't heard many times before?).
- You don't need to have special expertise in a topic. But explaining how your background or experience informs your point of view can make for a more effective op-ed. You also don't need to have an important title -- and having an important title doesn't mean we'll publish your op-ed. In fact, because we realize that senators, business leaders, heads of state and the like have access to various platforms where they can express their views, we hold them to a particularly high standard when considering whether to publish them in The Post.

When will I hear back about my op-ed submission?

We do our best to read all submissions promptly. If you don't hear from us within a week, it's safe to assume we won't be able to use your op-ed.

Are op-eds edited?

Our editors are careful not to alter a writer's opinions or "voice," but all op-eds are edited for clarity and precision of language and for logic of argumentation and organization. They are also fact checked and copy edited for grammar and style and may be adjusted to fit the space available in the newspaper. We ask contributors to sign off on all changes before we publish a final version on the Web site or op-ed page.

Are op-eds solicited?

Although we carefully review all unsolicited pieces coming across the transom, we also reach out to people we think might have an interesting opinion on a topic in the news -- especially when the news is breaking and we'd like to get smart commentary onto the Web site and into the paper quickly.

Discussion and submission guidelines

We invite you to submit your videos, photos, articles, and comments in certain areas of our website. It is our hope that you'll take the opportunity to contribute to these interactive forums and share your original content with our community. In order to keep these interactive forums enjoyable and interesting for all of our users, we ask that you follow the rules outlined below.

By submitting content, you are consenting to these rules, you agree not to submit inappropriate content. Inappropriate content includes any content that:

- infringes upon or violates the copyrights, trademarks or other intellectual property rights of any person
- is libelous or defamatory
- is obscene, pornographic, sexually explicit, or vulgar
- violates a person's right to privacy
- violates any local, state, national, or international law
- contains or advocates illegal or violent acts
- degrades others on the basis of gender, race, class, ethnicity, national origin, religion, sexual orientation, disability, or other classification
- is predatory, hateful, or intended to intimidate or harass, or contains derogatory name-calling
- contains advertising
- contains a solicitation of any kind
- misrepresents your identity or affiliation
- impersonates others
- is in poor taste or is otherwise objectionable

You agree that you are fully responsible for the content that you submit. You will promptly remove any content that you have posted should you discover that it violates these rules or that it is otherwise inappropriate. You will indemnify The Washington Post and its affiliates and their subsidiaries, and its and their directors, officers, managers, employees, shareholders, agents, and licensors, from and against losses, expenses, damages, and costs, including reasonable attorneys' fees, resulting from any claim brought by any third party relating to content you have posted.

You understand and agree that we are not responsible for any user submitted content. You further understand that we have the right, but not the obligation, to monitor submissions and we may remove content that we deem inappropriate for any reason whatsoever without consent. We further reserve the right, in our sole discretion, to remove a user's privilege to post content on our site. We may reject or remove any comment at any time, with or without notice to you.

You certify that you are at least 13 years of age. If you are under the age of 13, please do not submit any content to us. If you are under the age of 18 but at least 13 years of age, you may submit content only with the permission of, and under the supervision of, a parent or legal guardian. If you are a parent or legal guardian agreeing to these rules for the benefit of an individual between the ages of 13 and 18, please be advised that you are fully responsible for his or her submissions and any legal liability that he or she may incur.

You certify that you have the permission of others who have contributed to or are featured in any content that you submit. If there are any individuals under the age of 18 in any photos, video, or other content that you submit, you must obtain the permission of each such individual's parent or legal guardian prior to submitting the content.

You acknowledge and agree any use and/or reliance on any information obtained through the interactive forums at your own risk. We are not in any manner endorsing the content of the interactive forums and cannot and will not vouch for its reliability.

By applying for Preferred Commenter status, you are consenting to abide by the overall discussion policy when submitting content. Preferred Commenters are directly involved in a particular story on washingtonpost.com. They are approved on a story-by-story basis and verified by a Post community manager. Once approved for Preferred Commenter status, users may submit content and share information relevant to particular stories onwashingtonpost.com for which they are approved. In all cases, users must still adhere to the Post Discussion and Submission Guidelines.

For any content that you submit, you give us permission to use such content. You hereby grant to The Washington Post a royalty-free, irrevocable, perpetual, worldwide, exclusive, and fully sublicensable license to use, reproduce, modify, adapt, publish, translate, create derivative works from, incorporate into other works, distribute, perform, display, and otherwise exploit such content, in whole or in part in any form, media or technology now known or later developed.

USA Today

Address: 7950 Jones Branch Dr., Tysons Corner, Virginia, 22108

Website: www.usatoday.com

Reporter contacts: <http://www.usatoday.com/reporters/>

USA TODAY accepts unsolicited opinion pieces from many sources. Columns typically run 650 to 900 words in length. Those most likely to be accepted deal in an incisive, compelling way with issues now at the top of the news or introduce wholly new subject matters and insights of interest to our readers.

- Submissions should be sent to theforum@usatoday.com as pasted-in text rather than an attachment. Because of so many unsolicited submissions, a response may take up to a week.
- If you're interested in joining other conversations about topics in USA TODAY or subjects important to you, e-mail letters@usatoday.com. Letters are edited for accuracy, clarity and length. Submissions of 200 words or fewer have the best chance of being published. Letters that include a name, address, day and evening phone numbers, and that are verified by USA TODAY, are considered for publication.
- Letters may also be submitted by fax at 703-854-2053 or by mail to 7950 Jones Branch Dr., McLean, VA 22108. Any submission to USA TODAY may be published or distributed in print or digital forms.
